Latest fund report

In August, Danske Invest Hedge Fixed Income Global Value Fund provided a return of 0.17%. Year to date the return is 15.49%. Since inception, the portfolio has provided a return of 97.03%.

August was a decent month for risky assets. Tariff fears subsided further, with the risk of an immediate halt to global trade out of the way for now. Despite this, there are still market concerns regarding a slowdown in economic activity in the US, while leading indicators for Europe have been holding up. In the US, inflation fears persist as the impact of already higher tariffs is feeding through. In Europe France is back in focus as fiscal policy is challenged putting pressure on the spread between France and Germany.

The remainder of 2025 has the potential to remain volatile. Market focus remains centred on the next announcements from Trump regarding geopolitics, as well as the potential reemergence of tariff negotiations. In addition, uncertainty regarding the interest rate path from in particular the Fed remains high as growth is slowing.

Activity in the EUR fixed income market traditionally slows down over the summer with almost no new issuance. Looking ahead, activity will pick up in September. We have seen throughout the first months of the year that global bond issuers are ready to take advantage of periods with lower volatility to issue debt. The need for additional funding for increased defence spending is putting upside risk on this year's sovereign funding outlook. We expect high supply to start again in September.

At the end of August, the portfolio risk level (in terms of Value-at-Risk) is 46% below our maximum risk limit, which is lower compared to the end of last month. We are ready to increase or decrease the risk utilisation in the fund in the coming months depending on the opportunities that may arise.

Historical returns are no reliable indicator of future returns. It should be noted that monthly returns (in per cent) are non-additive.
